④ US: Inflation turned stickier; Fed cut rates by a quarter point at November 2024 meeting

The US Consumer Price Index (CPI) increased by 0.2% mom in October, unchanged from September. On a yoy basis, CPI accelerated to 2.6% (September: 2.4%). Core CPI rose by 0.3% in October, also unchanged from September, increased by 3.3% yoy, consistent with September's 3.3%. Separately, the Fed's preferred inflation gauge, the core PCE inflation accelerated to 0.3% mom in September (August: 0.1%), resulting in a yoy increase of 2.7% (August: 2.7%) (Note: Octobers figures are not out yet at the time of writing). Separately, the unemployment rate was unchanged at 4.1% in October. Lastly, the Federal Reserve (the Fed) cut the Fed Funds Rate (FFR) by 25 bps in November, following a 50 bps cut in September.

④ EU: ECB and BOE each cut rates by a quarter point

The European Central Bank (ECB) cut interest rates by 25 bps to 3.25% in October, marking the third rate cut in 2024. The central bank is likely taking cues from headline price rises in the euro area, which eased to 1.8% in September, falling below the central bank's 2% target for the first time in three years. Separately, the Bank of England (BOE) cut interest rates by 25 bps to 4.75% in November, marking the second rate cut in 2024.

④ China: PMIs improved amid stimulus measures, but CPI and PPI remained discouraging

The China's manufacturing PMI improved to 50.1% in October from 49.8% in September. Non-manufacturing PMI came in at 50.2% in October, up from 50.0% in September. Separately, the Caixin/S&P Global manufacturing PMI increased to 50.3% in October from 49.3% in September. To note, the official and Caixin surveys have different samples, with the Caixin PMI focusing on export-oriented enterprises and SMEs in the country's coastal region.

China's CPI rose just 0.3% yoy in October, below the expected 0.4%, and down from 0.4% in September. Core CPI edged up from 0.1% to 0.2%, indicating weak inflationary pressure. Year-to-date, CPI has grown only 0.3%, well below the 3% target. Meanwhile, PPI dropped more than expected, falling from -2.8% yoy to -2.9%, marking the 25th consecutive month of negative growth, highlighting persistent production sector pricing pressures.

Malaysia Highlights

④ Malaysia: Price pressure remained under control in September

In September 2024, Malaysia's headline inflation moderated to 1.8% yoy (August: 1.9%) owing to lower transport costs, muted utilities and food costs. Core inflation also softened to 1.8% yoy (August: 1.9%). Headline inflation moderated thus far this year (9M24: 1.8% vs. 9M23: 2.8%) as the high base effect wears off, together with some normalisation in commodity prices.

④ Malaysia: Slower trade activity, no thanks to E&E drag

Malaysia's export contracted a slight 0.3% yoy in September, no thanks to a surprise contraction in E&E shipment. On the other hand, import grew 10.9% yoy in September. On a mom basis, both exports and imports contracted in September 2024, by 3.9% and 10.3% respectively. Following this, Malaysia registered a higher trade surplus of RM13.2bn in September 2024, expanding from August's RM5.5bn. Despite September's slower growth, Malaysia's exports and imports improved for the period of 9M24, up 5.2% and 16.1% yoy respectively.

Market Performance

- ❶ Shanghai Shenzhen CSI300 Index declined by 3.2% in October after skyrocketing 21.0% last month as stimulus measures by the Chinese government, in a bid to boost the country's flagging economy, failed to bolster investor sentiment. Almost all sectors registered losses during the month with the exception of Technology (+8.2%).
- ❷ Dow Jones Index lost 1.3%, S&P 500 fell by 1.0% while Nasdaq declined by 0.5% in October amid uncertainty ahead of the presidential election and ongoing doubts about the path of interest rates. Healthcare, materials, and real estate sectors posted the biggest losses, while financials and communication services sectors performed well, with positive earnings from banks boosting financials.
- ❸ Euro Stoxx 50 Index dropped by 3.5% in October amid some concerns about growth and uncertainty around the US presidential election outcome. The weakest sectors included information technology, consumer staples and real estate. Industrials and communication services sectors were the only sectors to register a positive return for the month.
- ❹ Nikkei 225 Index rose by 3.1% in October despite initial market declines due to political uncertainty in Japan, including Ishiba's unexpected leadership win and snap election, the market rebounded, anticipating continued stability and expansionary policies following the election results. The weakness of the yen supported large cap exporters such as technology, autos, and machinery stocks. Financial stocks also rebounded after a setback in the summer.
- ❺ FBMKLCI Index lost by 2.9% mom in October and closed at 1,601.88. Separately, Small Cap Index fell by 2.3% but the Mid 70 Index increased by 1.2%. Sector-wise, the top performers were Construction, REITs and Healthcare, with gains of 2.2%, 1.8% and 1.3% mom, respectively. Laggards were Utilities, Telco and Consumer, declining by -7.2%, -3.1%, and -2.5% mom, respectively. In terms of fund flow, foreign investors shifted to net sellers in October, recording net sell flows of RM1.8bn after three months of net buying. This reduced the cumulative foreign inflows to RM1.8bn for the first ten months of 2024.

Currency

- ❻ USDCNY: The CNY depreciated by 1.4% against the USD in October, driven by a stronger dollar. The Dollar Index rose 3.2% to 104.0, supported by cautious Fed easing and expectations of a second Trump presidency, which raised concerns about inflation, higher tariffs, and increased fiscal spending.
- ❼ USDJPY: The JPY depreciated by 5.8% in October due to a stronger dollar.
- ➋ USDMYR: The MYR declined by 6.2% in October due to a stronger dollar.

Market Outlook

- With Trump's return for a second presidential term, investors should now shift their focus to how to strategically position themselves moving forward. We argue that market performance does not necessarily depend on the outcome of the U.S. presidential election. Notably, "Change Election" has become the new norm in the U.S. Since 2000, 10 out of 12 federal elections—including all of the last five—have led to a change in the party controlling the House, Senate, and/or the White House. This trend significantly exceeds the average from the 1960s to the 1990s, during which only one or two elections per decade resulted in a shift in party control. Despite this, the S&P 500 index has historically returned about 10% per year on average before adjusting for inflation, although the market tends to be more volatile during election years.
- Trump's 2024 trade policies are expected to mirror his "America First" approach from his first term, focusing on reducing the U.S. trade deficit, protecting American jobs, and challenging perceived unfair trade practices, especially with China. Key proposals include 10% blanket import duties on all imported goods and a 60% tariff on Chinese goods. These measures are likely to provoke retaliation from countries like China, the EU, Canada, and Mexico, escalating tariffs and increasing import costs. This could lead to higher prices for U.S. consumers and reduced demand both domestically and abroad. In the short term, this could slow global trade and manufacturing, potentially triggering a phase of global reflation—driven by supply chain disruptions, increased costs, and weaker demand. Over the long term, the global economic balance may shift as nations diversify trade partners, potentially diminishing U.S. economic influence and reshaping international trade dynamics. The dollar may also strengthen during inflationary periods as the Fed is likely to tighten monetary policy.
- Malaysia stands to benefit from the intensification of US-China trade war. In fact, following the first trade war, re-exports have grown significantly, accounting for 22.1% of Malaysia's total exports in 2023, up from 18.6% in 2019. Foreign direct investment (FDI) also surged, rising from RM21.6 billion in 2016 to RM128.4 billion in 2023. Key sectors attracting FDI include electrical and electronics, semiconductors, green technology, machinery, and medical devices. Malaysia's strategic location and improving infrastructure are key factors in this trend.

- Top Performer – RHB Islamic Global Developed Markets MYR Fund – The fund's strong performance aligned with the rally in US market following Fed rate cut. The fund (MYR class) also gained from the weakening of the MYR during the month.
- Worst Performer – Phillip Dana Aman – The fund's underperformance was dragged by its high exposure in Energy, Industrial and Utilities sectors.
- Allocation – We made no changes to the portfolio for the month of October. We will continue to monitor the performance of the funds and rebalance the portfolio, when necessary, in line with the market condition.

YTD Review – Conventional

- Top performer: Kenanga Growth – The fund's strong performance is attributed to overweight positions in Construction, Healthcare and Financial sectors.
- Worst performer: Manulife Investment Asia-Pacific REIT - Underperformance was due to investors reassessing their aggressive bets on the timing and magnitude of potential US rate cuts in 2024 while HK/China property sector may take longer than expected to recover.
